

Minister Cannot See How Dominion Gov't Can Stabilize Price of Wheat

SAYS GOV'T. TO STAND PAT ON DECISION

Hon. Thomas G. Murphy, Minister of Interior, at Coast

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 22.—In view of the world situation, the government is not likely to change its policy of standing pat on its decision to stabilize the price of wheat, Hon. Thomas G. Murphy, minister of the interior, said in an interview here today following his arrival in Vancouver.

Members of the three parties provinces conferred with the Dominion government in August of this year. "I do not believe the price of wheat from the position taken at that time," Mr. Murphy added.

He would not indicate what the answer had been. Canadian National parks, which come under Mr. Murphy's jurisdiction, said in the eastern provinces, particularly in Ontario, that there was a demand to create national parks in the western provinces with their big game and scenery.

"My own province, Manitoba," he said, "will come into the picture when we get the Hiding Mountain National Park, which is one of the most beautiful in the world. In the Maritimes, there have been requests for federal park reservations."

He said that it was possible in our parks in order to aid unemployment.

Negotiations now under way between the Dominion and British Columbia governments are expected to lead to the establishment of two new federal parks, one on the lower mainland and the another in the interior," Mr. Murphy said.

in, own it, and sell power and refinery, if any, and sell it to people at the highest price the market will bear.

The fact that Canada operates power companies owned by the federal government, the power at a profit from Niagara to Canadians for half the price the Americans pay for electricity, is a very important factor in the Dominion's argument.

VIBRATIONS, producing no sound that the ear perceives, are nevertheless "heard" by the human brain.

Sergius P. Grace, vice-president of the Bell Telephone Laboratories, shows that the brain can be made to hear what the ears do not hear, the owner of the brain hearing tone produced by electrical vibrations. That is something to puzzle evolutionists.

WHEN the late J. Pierpont Morgan was in his prime, and Thomas G. Murphy was entering up New York street car lines with patient perseverance, Mr. Morgan said to Ryan, "He can be the richest man in the world if he cares to take the trouble."

T. Ryan didn't become the richest man in the world, but did fairly well. The fortune that he made was not in the stock market, but in the insurance business, an inheritance tax of more than $21,000,000.

Mr. Ryan got rich because he had imagination. And for several other reasons.

He bought diamond mines in Africa and sold them at a profit. He lost in transit by bringing the diamonds out of Africa in flying machines.

the forthcoming general revision of the tariff. And before his departure he assured the Washington government that as soon as possible after his return from the Imperial Conference he would deal with its proposals that negotiations for an international undertaking on the St. Lawrence - Great Lakes deep waterway be resumed. Then he has the two important positions in the diplomatic service to fill in those Canadian Minister Plenipotentiary to Washington and Canadian High Commissioner to London.

Unquestionably Mr. Bennett will give serious consideration to his return to the urging of the western provincial premiers. Federal assistance be extended for the return of the wheat situation. It may be pretty well taken for granted that he will not enter the political arena. The government here undertake to guarantee a minimum price to some other form of financial support might be considered as justified. The chances of this would be improved if the project for the reorganization of the central selling agency and its virtual control by the provincial governments until the situation is righted should be carried to fruition.

All Talking Wheat

The wheat situation and the efforts of the western premiers to enlist assistance have practically monopolized the interest of Ottawa during the past week. This interest has increased with the reports of the re-organization project, involving the installation of Hon. J. E. Brownlee as head of the Central Agency and his resignation from the federal premiership.

At home, this low class creature could not walk on the same side of the street with those that met him at the round table. But they all applauded him in London, because the poor creature had preferred any kind of 're' by the Hindus to rule by the British. Slaves cling to their slavery."

BROWNLEE AND BRACKEN MAY SEE BANKERS

New Rumor Cites Alberta Premier as Foe's

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—The premiers of Manitoba and Alberta who have been in eastern Canada interviewing bankers and Dominion government officials with a view to solution of the Canadian wheat problem, today paid an unexpected visit to New York.

Premier J. H. Brownlee, Manitoba, and Premier J. E. Brownlee, Alberta, were registered to day at a downtown hotel. Efforts to get in touch with them failed and no indication of the purpose of their visit was given in any quarter.

In financial circles it was considered possible the western Canada premiers had come to New York to interview American bankers.

Several Canadians and Americans figured in the winning. A. F. Dewar of Vancouver stands to collect $400,000 if he held on to his ticket for Coligny II, who finished four lengths behind Glorious Devon.

A. Harris and John Tanasana of New York, and D. Delch, who lives in Manila, P. I., are worth $10,000 each if they still have their tickets on starters.

WHEN you see a cow, contentedly changing grass into milk, or morosely moaning for her calf, make a respectful bow. For she, the cow, is "the biggest industry" in the United States.

Talking to the National Cooperative Milk Producers' Federation, Thomas H. McInerney shows that the value of wheat produced by the American cow amounts to four billion dollars a year. It is an industry greater than steel, greater than automobiles, by far.

Mr. McInerney, who is the president of the National Dairy Products Corporation, selling 100,000,000 pounds of butter a year, and $100,000,000 worth of all milk products, believes that some of the money and labor saving devices now applied to other industries can be applied to milk production, and proposes to help that along.

It may surprise you to know that the fountain pen in your waistcoat pocket is probably made of milk, all but the metal part.

SENATOR NORRIS thinks our people should do a few things for themselves, threatens to force an extra session, unless fair hearing is given to his ideas.

These include the notion that the people, having spent hundreds of millions on Muscle Shoals, should own that enterprise.

Senator Norris thinks that if the people are good enough to pay for a thing, they are also good enough to own it after they have paid for it.

Others, "more conservative," think the people should pay for a great undertaking and then private individuals should step in.

Tried Suicide

Last spring it was stated, he tried to commit suicide as the outcome of an unsuccessful love affair, but apparently was not given any prison term for that offense. He is known to have left Edmonton for Calgary a day before Midwinter was due in his taxi by one of all of four men who hired him for a drive to High River.

Bribe-taking precautions are being taken to see that Allen does not attempt to again commit suicide. An effort to take the noose which may be hanging over his head. Nervous and broken down, he has "talked plenty" since his arrest.

It is not yet known whether (Radio) knows that he is one of those named in connection with the carrying out of the murder plot, but it is likely, with this swift spread of news made possible in U. Radio's escape was a far more taken over and above those of the routine sort at Fort Leavenworth, pending the arrival of Alberta Provincial Police officers from Regina, to take to the Canadian law for the cold-blooded killing of the taxi driver for High River.

Radio is stated to be a narcotics addict and a dangerous man when in the clutches of the law.

MONARCH SHOW REAL COMEDY

"Pardon My Gun" Something New in Romantic Film of West

Pathe's romantic comedy of the west, "Pardon My Gun," was filmed largely on the Lone Pine Ranch.

This vast property spreads over 1300 acres of unusually fertile land beneath the shifting shadows of Mt. Whitney, the highest peak in the United States, and not far from Death Valley, its lowest point. Aside from its historic interest, it offers strikingly beautiful backgrounds for the action of the story. Not once was a motion picture or studio setting resorted to in gain a true screen representation of ranch life in the far west.

"Pardon My Gun," which comes to the Monarch theatre today, features such screen favorites as Sally Gray, George Forman, Robert Edison, the MacFarlane brothers, world's champion juvenile riders and romancers May, Lee Moran, Harry Woods, Stemple and Harry Wynn.

The 21 members of the Marigold Theatre Company, a party of British players, will arrive in Edmonton over the C.P.R. train on Monday, December 1, from Vancouver. Following the presentation of the stage play at the new Empire theatre, the company will leave the city on December 4 for Calgary and Pacific Coast points.

RIAL TO CROWD ARE THRILLED BY WESTERNER

Buck Jones, Daredevil Cowboy, in "Men Without Law," is Real Hit

"Buck" Jones, daredevil cow-puncher of the western picture, has done more than his share to bring back the "western" type of picture to the popularity it enjoyed in pre-war days. In his latest picture, "Men Without Law," he is to be seen at the Rialto theatre until Monday night. Bracketed with this is "Guilty," a story of modern everyday life that will provide much thrills.

The Jones picture on the program that opened Friday is a fine reproduction of life in the cow country of the western U. S. It abounds in cow-boys, tempestuous fiery horses and a fair share of villainy.

The hero has a real type of a hard time in the past few days. In the past few days, he is straightened out in the end. Jones' appeal lies in his heroism, his engaging personality, and the many fine performances under hazardous circumstances. He is given first Friday night picture was delighting a multitude of highly enthusiastic children in the audience.

"Guilty" is a powerful drama of a hatred that pits a man against two lives; a story of youth and age pitted against love and vengeance.

Virginia Valli in the feminine lead is excellent, at all times. While John Holland gives a memorable performance as the male lead.

The two fine pictures make an admirable contrast, the latter western off-setting the slower moving city drama, but with both carrying sufficient thrills to satisfy all.

A news reel contains pictures of a variety of subjects.

HAROLD LLOYD FILLS CAPITOL WITH LAUGH

"Feet First," Star's Latest Comedy, is Funniest Yet Seen

Crowds will turn every available seat at the Capitol theatre where "Feet First," the latest Harold Lloyd talkie has been secured by Manager Wilson for a four-day run, starting today.

"Feet First" upholds with many distinctions the tradition of the Lloyd method. It is a story of fun, buffoonery and hair-raising thrills, to say nothing of a delightful tang of satirical romance.

Harold Lloyd enjoys the unique status of "comedian" and star. As such he plays his own picture and then goes home with himself in the role of chief amusement-provider.

In each of his successes the Lloyd fans have seen Harold in a different setting. In "Guilty" he was the horse-car driver. In "Brandy Boy" he was the plaintiff to police force honors. In "Shady Lane" he was the department store clerk. In "Welcome Danger" he was the nature-lover.

"Feet First" is the sole salesman whose ambition is to become a power in the great chain-store organization he works for. But there are those who say that it really doesn't matter what type of character Harold is depicting, as long as he injects his remarkable sense of humor and thrills into the story. The fact is that he does.

While the same goes for the "Mignon" picture, which is its amount of fun, clowning and gags.

In this picture Lloyd's activities carry him through more than a score of indoor and outdoor scenes, some of the most amusing being aboard a trans-Pacific liner, the picture was actually taken on the steamer Malindi bound for Honolulu.

According to a dress expert the new fashion clothes called on women to reveal true femininity. It seems that let by the women are losing their manhood.

EMPRESS FILM IS EPIC STORY OF NORTHLAND

Mounties Play Big Part in Stirring Drama "Men of the North"

A story which is engrossing from its very first reel and which never lets up on punch and excitement until the last climax is to be seen at the Empress theatre, where "Men of the North" is showing today, Monday and Tuesday.

Here is a tale for those who are tired of hot-house plots and drawing-room situations. A two-fisted drama of the north, which mingles its forceful narrative with picturesque scenes.

The action centres around Jessie the Fox, Canadian trapper, who disregards the jealous anger of a half-breed girl for an insatiable lust for the daughter of Huskin, a millionaire miner. When a series of robberies takes place in the district, the half-breed girl gets her revenge by throwing suspicion on Louie, who is forced to flee, followed by Sergeant Mooney of the Mounted Police.

The realising adventures in the snow country between the mounties and the renegade of the tale, which is brought to a final conclusion with an entirely unexpected twist.

Expert work is done by Gilbert Roland as Louie the Fox, and he is ably supported by the attractive Barbara Leonard, who plays the feminine lead. Arnold Mooney, the millionaire miner, has been obtained as the next actor. Robert Elliott as Sergeant Mooney. George Davis in a comic role. Nina Quarter as the half-breed girl and Robert Gray as the trapper.

"East Is West" Comes To Capitol On Thursday

Announcement is made by Manager Wilson that the Capitol theatre that the all-talking screen play, "East Is West," featuring Lewis Allen, Lewis Allen and Edward G. Robinson, has been obtained as the next attraction, opening Thursday for a four-day run.

Originally produced in New York, "East Is West" moved to the screen with Ming Toy and Billy Bennett, and a wealthy San Francisco, who rescues the little Chinese girl from a "love boat" in China.

Ming Toy is admirably cast as Ming Toy and makes her debut.

Word Received Last Saturday Night

"Artista Model" Not Good

Word was received in Edmonton last Saturday night that "Artista Model" was not good.

The picture, which was shown at the Empire theatre for an eight-day run, beginning on Saturday, could not open on schedule here.

It is thought that the picture will be cancelled, although efforts are still being made to bring the show to Edmonton.

Changes to the show are understood to have been made in Calgary and for this reason the Edmonton opening was called off.

Can the Untrained Woman Get a Job?

By KATHLEEN NORMAN

Impatience seems to be the main trouble with women who want to get a job. Not girls, for girls slip into the office with a minimum of fuss and worry on their faces. Their friends are working in the factories, in the office, and their friends are making money when there is a vacancy.

The woman's problem is more serious. Perhaps she never but it does exist. There are actually thousands of jobs that are open for women, but almost all of them are in middle-age or older persons' business. But that objection is not the only one.

Matrons and managers and their women heads in almost all schools, nurseries, hotels, rooming houses and in-where else. Let her take Main street, and go up and down the stairs, and she will find plenty of work. But she will find that she is not in her place in her household, myself, plodding from agency to agency and trying to find a job.

Don't expect a wonderful pathway for success unless you are open all at once. One life is a life of struggle. One of our most successful writers, now making his third thousand a year, was driven to a butcher's house from 22

MORTDIX

'The Peace and Harmony of a Family Depend More Upon the Justice With Which a Husband and Wife Treat Each Other Than Upon Any Other One Thing,' Declares Dorothy Dix

If you should ever say young couple about to be married to be just to each other, and to be just to each other, and to be just to each other, they are sure to say they are sure to be just to each other.

Nevertheless, there is in our every-day life, as in no other life, a certain peace and harmony of a family depend more upon the justice with which a husband and wife treat each other than upon any other one thing. It is the justice with which they treat each other that makes the difference between a happy and a miserable marriage.

As long as they know that they are being just to each other, and that they are being just to each other, and that they are being just to each other, they are sure to be just to each other.

It is hardly too much to say that the peace and harmony of a family depends more upon the justice with which a husband and wife treat each other than upon any other one thing. It is the justice with which they treat each other that makes the difference between a happy and a miserable marriage.

They take the matter of money, for instance, which is a bone of contention in thousands of households and which does more than any other one thing to disturb the peace and harmony of a family. It is the justice with which they treat each other that makes the difference between a happy and a miserable marriage.

Another thing that women resent is the injustice their husbands show them in not playing the matrimonial game with them fairly. No woman can be expected to be a martyr, and no man can be expected to be a saint.

He resents the expense of supporting a family. He spends as little time as he can in the house, and he spends as much time as he can in the street.

"Why isn't it his business to keep the home fire burning as it is mine?" asks the wife. "Why did he take me from a good home and a good life, and put me in a bad home and a bad life?"

And in the answer to these questions we find the reason of so many divorces. It is the justice with which they treat each other that makes the difference between a happy and a miserable marriage.

And wives are just as unjust to their husbands as husbands are to their wives. They are just as much to blame for the divorce as the husbands are.

All of us know women who have done some really great things. They have been successful in business, in the home, and in the world.

And all of us know women who take all their husbands can give them and never give anything in return. They know women who refuse to do anything for their husbands, and who refuse to do anything for their husbands.

It is justice that is mainly the matter with matrimony, and so it is justice that is mainly the matter with matrimony, and so it is justice that is mainly the matter with matrimony.

Be the best woman in the basement department in anticipation of that inevitable hour when the higher-up comes down in a hurry and says, "I want the best woman you got!"

worked better for me. Perhaps she has been married for five years, or a dozen years, and has a child or two. Perhaps she is fifty, bearded after a quarter century of active and loving service—wifely, motherly, home-making.

Again, she finds herself superfluous and penniless. For what she has done, she has been paid. She has been paid for her services, and she has been paid for her services.

Who said Blue Monday?

WASHDAY—hardest in the week for many women. Especially if there are children.

But it needn't be "blue." When you begin to feel tired, make yourself a cup of tea.

It will keep you from feeling blue.

— WHEN YOU DRIVE A CAR —

Trust to Your Own Eyes—Not the Other Fellow's

Do You Need GLASSES?

If so, it is utterly foolish for you to try and get along without them. Your health, happiness and even personal safety depend upon your ability to see in comfort.

Don't Risk Your Eyesight

Without the blessing of a good eyesight all the joy that comes of being able to see is lost. So much of life's happiness enters through the eyes, and so much of it is lost through neglect.

Defective Eyesight Responsible For Bad Accidents Involving Serious Injuries to Three

A careful driver, a man in late middle age, a respected citizen driving to the wedding of his son. His defective vision led him to swerve to avoid an imaginary obstacle with the result that he ran into a real one. He was badly injured himself, so were his wife and lovely young daughter, the latter sustaining shocking facial wounds that marred her beauty forever, accompanied by the loss of an eye. Surely a terrible object lesson that it would be impossible to ignore.

It is upon the watchful eyes of the motorist that depends the safety of himself and that of the rest of the public. The utterly fatal mistake of operating a car on the assumption that the OTHER fellow is going to behave like a reasonable being, with a regard for his own and other people's safety — is demonstrated in numberless tragic accidents every day. It is up to each individual motorist to take every possible step to avoid accidents and to leave nothing whatever to chance. Surely it is no more than reasonable to suppose that if a motorist is to be held responsible for the safe operating condition of his car—brakes, etc., it would be still more essential that his own faculties of sight and hearing should be in proper operating condition.

Travelling Man Returning Home From a Successful Trip Meets With Frightful Ending at Crossing

Here is a case that took place in broad daylight. The line was perfectly open to view and, to a sober man of normal vision such an accident could have been easily avoided. But the inquest disclosed the ominous fact that the victim suffered from very indifferent eyesight. Of course, it is quite impossible to say to what extent his vision might have been improved by expert attention, but it suffices to show what shocking things can happen in circumstances where good vision is so necessary and where defective eyes fail to see the ordinary signs of danger.

Statistics have shown that deaf persons are less likely to run into mischief than persons with poor eyesight, for the simple reason that the person with defective hearing is compelled to make all the more vigilant use of his eyes.

If you have any reason to suspect the slightest impairment of your sense of vision, you should have your eyes tested without delay and — if necessary — have the condition remedied by corrective glasses. If you are a careful driver in every other respect, but neglect your eyesight, you still — and justly — come under the category of a careless driver and a menace to public safety.

Whether you drive or whether you walk along the busy highways and thoroughfares — your safety increasingly depends upon a reliable eyesight. Take the precautions of having your eyes tested.

Vienne—What kind of car did your father buy? Vienne—The kind with the blue body. Vienne—My idea of hard luck is to have this radio "blacked" when I have this opportunity to knock it all down.

Four Car Salesmen Who Enjoyed Fine Trip To The Coast

TOM MORRIS. Four of the Edmonton Motor salesmen who recently returned from a whistle party at the coast on the guests of General Motors. They are all top notches in the Chevrolet 100 Car Club, and they were chauffeured from here to Vancouver by Jeff Upplinger, General Motors regional manager for Alberta, and did their travelling in private cars, and about a couple of busy days at Victoria catching the odd fish and shooting a few golf. Besides attending the convention held there at the same time. Frank Wolfe, manager of the Edmonton Motors, claims they are all go-getters, and also wishes to remark that Art Potter was the youngest member of the club to qualify for the trip.

Steam Driven Bus Proving Its Worth

BUFFALO, N.Y.—Steam-driven automobiles have passed out of the picture, but steam is again making its appearance in the form of a vehicle transportation in a new steam bus designed here. The bus saves a great deal of time, is simple and efficient. A steam engine has been perfected that generates steam from cold water in less than 20 seconds, the water being in a coil. A pressure of 200 pounds the amount necessary to start the bus. It is said to be tested within 24 seconds after the bus starts generating steam.

The bus carries heavy fuel oil and is automatic. It is fitted with a spark plug. It is able to generate sufficient steam to carry a gross weight of 15 tons or more an hour.

The body of the bus is built of steel and has no chains. There is no connection between front and rear axles except through the body to make the bus steered.

The motor is hung as far as in front of the rear axle as is feasible in the floor of the body. The boiler is a five feet long and weighs 150 lbs. and is attached to the body by spring shackles. Air brakes are used at all four wheels.

Half Cost of Gas Bus It is estimated that this bus will cost at least 50 per cent in operating cost compared with that of running a gasoline bus. It is able to run from 10 to 40 miles with one filling of water.

The bus is of the "squared-front" type, having no hood sticking out in front. It is fitted in the rear and is able to accommodate 20 passengers, with seats for 24 and a driving room for 32.

No gear. The gear required for the operation of the steam engine, for different speeds and power, is in the form of a clutch and a gear shift which requires the use of steam and is controlled by the cylinder of steam and at four wheels.

A FISH WHICH SWIMS ON ITS BACK: The African Cat-fish of the Nile (Xenodonta batemoides) is the only fish having the eccentric characteristic of swimming upside down. As a consequence this fish has undergone a modification of color. Its belly being darker than its back. The Ancient Egyptians were aware of the singularity of this fish, which figures frequently in their hieroglyphics.

Immigrants Can Be Deported

By ROBERT CREADE

It is a shock to many British born to learn that even after so long a period as twenty years in this country they can be handed a rejection slip.

Canadians can sympathize with their predicament. They, too, can be deported.

After discussion of the immigration law with officials of the department in Ottawa and Montreal, out of the haze of regulations there emerged for me one seemingly cardinal truth about our "immigration" system, namely, that Canadians cannot be deported.

Then I picked up a newspaper and doubted even that truth.

There is in Hamilton a young Finnish girl who has a four-month-old baby which was born in Canada. She and her young Canadian are to be deported.

There is in Vancouver a Chinese girl, Gao Shu Moy, who is married to a Canadian-born Chinese, Lin Fat Chung, and the mother of a Canadian-born son. She and her child, a Canadian of the second generation are to be deported.

Much public sympathy has been aroused in the United States and Britain over the case of the Chinese and Finnish mothers. It is not likely that there will be such extreme expressions of sympathy for the Finnish girl or the Chinese wife and their Canadian children who are to be forever exiled from the land of their birth. Yet if Canada is to be charged with inhumanity the inhumanity is similar.

It may be said in defense of the department of immigration that in these and other cases it has to be cruel to be kind. In deporting the Chinese and Finnish mothers it refuses to separate mother and child, and that no doubt is a kindness.

When it deports the epileptic and insane who have become a public burden no doubt it is also being kind to the Canadian taxpayer. Yet in the cases that have been given most publicity the credit for that economic kindness must go to Queen's Park rather than to Ottawa. It is the Ottawa government that insisted on observation of the deportation doctrine that charity begins at home.

The deputy-minister at Ottawa, Mr. F. C. Blair, said to me, "We are an immigration rather than an emigration department. We are more interested in bringing people into Canada than in expelling them. We have a duty to perform toward Canada and we must obey the law which clearly defines the undesirable and continue to do so. We have no choice if they have entered illegally remove them."

Let him who is prepared to maintain at his own expense for humanitarian or sentimental reasons a pauper, moped-do-well or criminal abroad be the last voice at the federal department of immigration.

A Montreal cartoonist suggesting that the department is lax in making no distinction between Ontario's and Canada's share in the inhumanity has depicted the operating table in a hospital labelled "Immigration officials." A nurse is handing a surgeon to graft into the patient's warm red heart the tie of a volunteer. I am sure no such operation is needed for Mr. Blair. I found him a person extremely kind to me. He was a very good problem in itself in deportation. Recently he wrote me a letter which he wrote with regard to a certain case instead of a curt official, epigrammatic and person who have been insane at any time previous to the case.

Next in order of undesirability are persons afflicted with tuberculosis or any loathsome or infectious disease. The law is no positive in its declaration that such persons are not to be admitted to Canada that in their case it forbids any appeal to the minister of immigration who in all other cases has practically unlimited powers of discretionary treatment.

If the medical officer of any port of landing pronounces any prospective immigrant diseased or insane they must be rejected. And if they slip into Canada through concealment of their defects no lapses of time can save them from deportation unless they are made immune by naturalization, an immunity the British born cannot secure.

Persons who are likely to become a public charge are also in the prohibited class, as are those who have been convicted of or admitted having committed any crime involving moral turpitude.

The United States immigration law has been drafted to deal with the moral turpitude clause. Our own law also has it.

"How would you define moral turpitude?" I asked the deputy-minister. "It is in general, said he, 'anything that savors of moral crookedness.'"

The British born in Canada therefore do not need to be epileptic or insane or recipients of public charity to fear deportation. They are liable to deportation if at the time of their coming to this country they regarded to mention the fact that they had robbed an orchard or a hen, committed a burglary or a larceny or a fraud.

When you read the law and compare it with immigration figures you see that Canada and the United States are not so different in their enforcement of the law. The law is the same in its enforcement. Only a few years ago there was a restriction on the number of immigrants that the department was letting into this country. Now there is an outcry that it is allowing too many.

In 1929 nearly 165,000 immigrants entered Canada and 1,084 were deported. In the last year of 1930 were 158,000. In the last year of 1931 were 160,000. In the last year of 1932 were 162,000. In the last year of 1933 were 164,000. In the last year of 1934 were 166,000. In the last year of 1935 were 168,000. In the last year of 1936 were 170,000. In the last year of 1937 were 172,000. method of celebrating the close of the harvest. Now in Europe, England and in parts of America general harvest festivals are held. These differ in different places. In some they are religious services held in the churches when prayers of thanksgiving to God for his bounty are offered. In others the ob-

From the very beginnings of history the Jews have observed the ingathering of the wheat with the Festival of Pentecost. In later times when civilization had spread throughout Europe and America the wheat was not gathered in the same manner as in the time of Pentecost so flowers took the place of the first fruit in the Synagogue, but the celebration persisted in its original form. In the East observance takes the form of merry-making, dancing, singing and drinking in which the harvest-festival celebrates their freedom from the fields and their joy in the completion of their tasks. And yet in other places the observance is a union of these two.

other original forms. The Romans observed the gathering of the harvest by celebrating the Cerealia, the Feast in honor of Ceres, the goddess of grain and the guardian of the fields. November first was set aside as a day of special observance by the Druids in celebration of the festival of the dead.

from the fields. The Japanese and Chinese have their harvest fetes at the end of the year and not when the first fruits are gathered as many Orientals do. In America the harvest time is celebrated by the Feast of Thanksgiving when the work of the harvest is done.

There are many ways in which the harvest time is celebrated. In pre-Reformation times in England Lammington was marked by the presentation of a loaf made of new wheat in the churches by every member of the congregation. Later the Feast of Ingathering
